ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

BUDGET SCOREKEEPING REPORT

• Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I hereby submit to the Senate the budget scorekeeping report prepared by the Congressional Budget Office under section 308(b) and in aid of section 311 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, as amended. This report meets the requirements for Senate scorekeeping of section 5 of Senate Concurrent Resolution 32, the first concurrent resolution on the budget for 1986.

This report shows the effects of congressional action on the budget through October 24, 1995. The estimates of budget authority, outlays, and revenues, which are consistent with the technical and economic assumptions of the 1996 concurrent resolution on the budget (H. Con. Res. 67), show that current level spending is below the budget resolution by $3.6 billion on budget authority and above the budget resolution by $3.4 billion in outlays. Current level is $2.2 billion above the revenue floor in 1996 and $125.4 billion above the revenue floor over the 5 years 1996–2000. The current estimate of the deficit for purposes of calculating the maximum deficit amount is $249 billion, $1.2 billion above the maximum deficit amount for 1996 of $247.8 billion.

Since my last report, dated October 12, 1995, Congress cleared, and the President signed the Agriculture Appropriations Act—Public Law 104–37. In addition, pursuant to section 205(b)(2) of House Concurrent Resolution 67, the revenue aggregates for the concurrent resolution have been revised. These actions changed the current level of budget authority, outlays, and revenues.

The report follows:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, October 25, 1995.

Hon. PETE DOMENICI,
Chairman, Committee on the Budget, U.S. Senate,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The attached report for fiscal year 1996 shows the effects of Congressional action on the 1996 budget and is current through October 24, 1995. The estimates of budget authority, outlays and revenues are consistent with the technical and economic assumptions of the 1996 Concurrent Resolution on the Budget (H. Con. Res. 67). This report is submitted under Section 308(b) and in aid of Section 311 of the Congressional Budget Act, as amended.

Since my last report, October 11, 1995, Congress cleared, and the President signed the Agriculture Appropriations (P.L. 104–37). In addition, pursuant to Section 205(b)(2) of H. Con. Res. 67, the revenue estimates for the concurrent resolution have been revised. These actions changed the current level of budget authority, outlays and revenues.

Sincerely,

JUNE E. O'NEILL,
Director.

WELFARE TO JOBS

• Mr. BREAU. Mr. President, we have heard a lot of horror stories about how bad the welfare system is, how it discourages people from getting married, finding work, and taking responsibility for themselves and their children. I would agree that the system needs an overhaul, and that is why I worked so hard on the Senate welfare reform bill we passed just last month. But I also believe that, within this broken system, there are many places that have already begun to experiment with innovative solutions to their welfare problems. And some of these initiatives are working—they are getting people off of welfare and into jobs.

One of the best examples of this success is what is happening right now in my State of Louisiana. Since October 1990, the number of families in Louisiana receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children has dropped 20 percent. A report issued by the Public Welfare Association in 1994 ranked Louisiana last in the country in AFDC caseload growth for 1989 through 1993. Last in the country. That is good news.

And that is due in large part to Project Independence, our statewide program that moves families from welfare dependency to independence. Project Independence provides transportation and child care—absolutely essential elements in moving people from welfare to work. It helps participants build up self-esteem by showing them their own ability to succeed in the work world. It also helps participants receive their GED's or high school diplomas, associate or 4-year degrees, or skill training, and builds their resumes through community service.

One Project Independence Program in particular, the Hamilton Terrace Learning Center in Shreveport, has been singled out for its outstanding success. Tomorrow, Vice President GORE will name this second-chance high school a winner of an Innovations in American Government Award from the Ford Foundation and the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. This prestigious award honors 15 initiatives each year that have developed effective, creative solutions to important social and economic problems. It carries with it a $100,000 grant to disseminate information about Hamilton Terrace and encourage its replication.

I have had the opportunity to visit Hamilton Terrace twice and each time, I was impressed by the dedication of the staff and the motivation of the students.

Hamilton Terrace Learning Center puts adult welfare recipients and students expelled from other local high schools in the same classes, where the adults convey a strong message to the teens on the importance of taking school seriously and avoiding some of the mistakes they made. At the same time, the teens give the welfare mothers a fresh look back at their own behavior, and give them a better sense of the role they can play in preventing their children from making the same mistakes. Putting these two groups together brings out a strong sense of responsibility in both.

The curriculum combines traditional academic courses with vocational training in fields such as food service, travel and tourism, health care, and child care. Classes are longer and about half the normal size to allow teachers time to get to know their students better. Lessons are tailored individually to each student's particular learning style. On Fridays, students either spend their time in community service or in counseling to work on specific academic concerns, and teachers meet for training and to work on solutions to problems they are facing in the classroom.

And it is all work-oriented. A school-to-work coordinator works closely with the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce to assist every student in planning a course of study that will result in a good job after graduation. Every graduate is guaranteed a job or enrollment in post-secondary training.

Their success has been outstanding. Of the school's 118 graduates from the
